Student Council

The Student Council is the governing body of Randolph High and Junior High.

It is made up of the presidents of each class; two students, a boy and a girl, from the seventh and eighth grades and each class in high school; the president of the council, usually a senior; Mr. Murray; and a faculty adviser, selected by the council, making nineteen members.

It is the Student Council's duty to assemble at any time to solve problems confronting the student body.

It sponsors the annual Carnival Plays, sports, Skool Nooz, library, and many other student activities.

Class History

by Weldon Osgood, Thelma Ordway, Beverly Osgood and Jack Soule

In 1937 thirty-eight of us entered the first grade, acting like the best ladies and gentlemen we have ever seen. Of these only eleven are graduating this year. We were too much for one teacher, so we had to have two — Miss White and Miss Simonds (now Mrs. Gaidys).

About Christmas time we all grew tired of school, so we decided to have the measles. One day only two liked school well enough to stay. Naomi Jennings insisted that Lois Rogers hang her clothes on the boys' side in the coat room until Lois took off the hood on her snowsuit and proved to Naomi she was a girl. We even had class couples then, such as Norma Morse and Frank Barcomb, who had to sit together one day. Then, too, Bob Slayton always saved Audrey Fuller a place for reading class.

Miss Walbridge (now Mrs. Norton) was our second grade teacher. Ned and Betsy Birchard and Phil McIntyre joined us. We had great fun drawing pictures, which we sent to Richard Carey when he was in the hospital.

We struggled through the third grade with Mrs. Stokes. It really wasn't bad at all except for the threats and a few broken rulers. We studied geography and to see what it would be like to live in Holland we made butter and cheese and brought crackers one day to school to eat. We shall never forget the little peek-a-boo dance we did at the concert that spring. Michele Nicoletti and Blenda Morey were added to our class this year.

Miss Walbridge was our fourth grade teacher. New faces were Lorraine Hall and Paul Wilson. One bright sunny afternoon we all had a wonderful time picking mayflowers at the reservoir.

In the fifth grade we had the late Miss Eaton. She was a little deaf; so sometimes when she would not pass enough paper for the back seats, no one dared speak loud enough to be heard and, consequently, they just sat there until she noticed them. It was her last year of teaching, so one afternoon we gave her a nice farewell party. Fred and Orville Gale joined us. One day, Freddie, the class clown, made a mistake on purpose and threw some mittens on top of the clock.

It was in the sixth grade that Miss Marshall taught us to deal with fractions and draw. We gained, among others, Evatte Dickinson, Jean Prior, Beverly Osgood and Betty Sivret. We used to have a terrible time keeping Harold Staples awake.

In the seventh grade the late Mrs. Simmons did a swell job of putting up with us. Everything happened that year. One time some of the boys and girls stuffed Mrs. Simmons' coat sleeves full of paper. Another time she taped Edward Johnson's mouth for talking too much. Aline Giroux joined us this year. We adopted a class poem which shows pretty well our technique about studying. It goes something like this:

"The more we study, the more we learn;
The more we learn, the more we know;
The more we know, the more we forget;
The more we forget, the less we know;
So — why study?"

One day Miss DeLuca came in, backed up to the table and let out one terrific scream. She had put her hand on a stuffed rattlesnake that someone had brought to school. Well, anyway, she didn't like us too well that afternoon. For our play we put on "Elmer and the Lovebug."

Above everything, though, we remember Paul Wilson's licking from

Mrs. Simmons, with Mrs. Stokes standing behind her, not daring to laugh aloud.

Miss DeLuca was our eighth grade teacher. Thelma and Roma Rice met us there. Because of the unexpected death of Mrs. Simmons we had no play. Mrs. Blaisdell completed the year. We will never forget how we held our breath for Polly Smith in her white gown at the Historical Pageant. Norma Morse had her troubles when Joan Haupt and Bob Slayton got hold of the note Roy Haupt sent her. How she went crying to Miss DeLuca for protection. We had a swell time on our picnic at Steele's camp where no one got into the poison ivy.

Our diplomas still have spots on them from the usual tears of Miss DeLuca.

In the fall of 1945 we entered high school with 60 students. We had Mr. Murray and Mrs. Bartlett for our advisers. Our class officers were: President, Philip McIntyre; Vice-President, Robert Slayton; Secretary, Michele Nicoletti; Treasurer, Jean Prior; Student Council members, Colin Gray, Jr., and Jean Hodgdon.

Our Carnival play was, "In Doubt About Daisy."

After entering our sophomore year we found we had lost Joan Haupt, Douglas Flint, Thelma Rice, Chester Rogers, Burton Smith, Donald Patch, Robert Tabor and Bernard Race.

This year we gained Arlene Brassard and Alyce Beaudoin, making 54 students.

Our officers this year were: President, Philip McIntyre; Vice-President, Robert Slayton; Secretary, Polly Smith; and Treasurer, Jean Prior; Student Council members, Colin Gray, Jr., and Jean Hodgdon. We had Miss Corson and Mr. Gaidys for our advisers.

With our Carnival play, "The Widow's Plight," we walked away with the cup.

The next year we found ourselves jolly juniors with two new students, Ruth Chase and Harold Semling. Many had left, leaving only 46 this year.

We elected as our officers: President, Robert Slayton; Vice-President, Jean Hodgdon; Secretary and Treasurer, Jean Prior; Student Council members, Lois Rogers and Philip McIntyre. Again we had Miss Corson and Mr. Gaidys for our advisers.

During the year we held dancing school to raise money to put in the treasury.

This same year we gave the seniors their reception at the Parish House.

Our Carnival play was, "Dad Takes a Rest Cure."

The next year we found ourselves as silly seniors and we gained Aline Giroux, George Vernimb and Robert Shanks, but lost Jean Prior, Elizabeth Flint and Harold Semling, leaving 46 to graduate this year.

We elected as our officers: President, Polly Smith; Vice-President, Jean Hodgdon; Secretary, Lois Rogers; Treasurer, Erma Ellis; Student Council, Thelma Ordway and Richard Chamberlin. Again we had Miss Corson and Mr. Gaidys for our class advisers.

This year we had socials, food sales, a play and the freshman reception.

Our senior play was, "Song of My Heart," while our Carnival play was "Command Performance."

As Commencement Week draws to an end, our minds turn toward future planning. May we all look back to our happy days at R. H. S. with pleasure and continue to make history of which we will be proud.

Class Will

by Aline Giroux and Paul Wilson

We, the class of 1949, being of doubtful mentality and, by this time, utterly devoid of all reason, do hereby bequeath to those who are left after we leave, the following:

I, Ruth Chase, do sadly bequeath my nice warm fur coat to Janet Prescott to keep her warm when Albert isn't around — when.

I, Lois Rogers, do will my capable cheerleading voice to "Bunny" Wagner. This is to be used from 8:30 to 12:00 A. M. and from 1:15 to 3:30 P. M.

I, Robert Denko, do leave to my younger brother with the excellent first soprano voice, my ability to sing bass, just to even things up a bit.

I, Thelma Ordway, do will my horse and buggy to Louis Belisle, so that Louis won't have to solicit rides from other people any longer.

I, Audrey Fuller, do will my ability to go out with one and only one boy at a time for more than a week to Pat Brainerd.

I, Richard Chamberlin, do will my board and room over at Whitney's to an underclassman who would desire such a position.

I, Mary Lou Duto, do bequeath my livewire system of accumulating and distributing the latest news, to my sister, Irene.

I, Carolyn Eddy, do will my love of silence and my quiet manner to Edward Brown. Oh, no, not that I think you need it or anything like that, but —.

I, Michele Nicoletti, do bequeath my ability to boast and bluff to anyone who will listen.

I, Eleanor Goodrich, do leave my quiet and ladylike manner to Carlene Rogers.

I, Duane Sargeant, do will my huge physical frame to Richard Brown so he will be able to hold his own in this world.

I, Naomi Jennings, do leave my height to Janet Grassetto, so that she, too, can get a bird's eye view of what is going on.

I, Jean Hodgdon, do will to Elwin Preston, one driver's license, complete with charge account for fenders, radiators, broken bones, etc., just in case — well, we won't go into that now.

I, Perley Day, do will my "low-backed car" to anyone who may have a substantial bankroll to keep it running.

I, Elaine Davis, do will my ability to keep secrets to my sister, Doris.

I, Katherine Laskey, do leave to the first one who applies, my dear old English notebook (when I get it done, that is) so that somebody won't have to work as hard as we did. Ha, ha!

I, Paul Wilson, do will my ability to quiet down in Mr. Murray's study hall to Dorothy Fullam.

I, Sally Royce, do will my dislike for bookkeeping to Barbara Smith.

I, Beverly Osgood, do bequeath my naturally curly hair to Richard Rattie, so that Richard won't have to spend so much money on Toni permanents this summer.

I, Elmer Ellis, do will my love for red hair to any girl in the freshman class who might be interested in Dean Harrington.

I, Polly Smith, do will my roaring voice at basketball games to "Bunny" Day so that the future games will be as loud as the past ones.

I, Norma Morse, do leave to Cynthia Holden, a complete translation of all the sentences in the French III grammar book and also complete instructions on how to cure subjunctivitis. Would that someone had done the same for me last year!

I, Weldon Osgood, do leave my comfortable back seat in study hall, said seat equipped with window, convenient radiator, nearby wastebasket and a couple cuds of chewing gum, to anyone of the junior boys who always get front seats.

I, Alice Thresher, do will my ability to get along with Mr. Robertie to next year's drivers' training class.

I, Roma Rice, do will my ability to get along without men to Bertha Delay.

I, George Vernimb, do bequeath my genius for answering history questions, directly or otherwise, to all the members of next year's U. S. History class. Boy, won't Mr. Parker like that!

I, Arlene Brassard, do will my efficiency in typing to Betsy Birchard.

I, Ann Cutting, do will my fast technique and my ability to "handle the men" to Lois Bennett.

I, Bob Slayton, do will my tall, dark and handsome physique to Robert Broadwell.

I, Lorraine Hall, do bequeath my jovial personality to Jean Manning.

I, Shirley Estabrook, do leave history class with no regrets.

I, Lloyd Battles, do will my horn-rimmed specs and my snazzy, new "butch" haircut, plus my greatly renowned sewing ability, to Donald Perry.

We, Madeleine LaRocque and Erma Ellis, do bequeath our positions at "The Spot" to Maurice Palmer and Paul Farnsworth just for a change of scenery.

I, Colin Gray, do will a goodly share of my noisy manner to Philip Lamb, so that we'll know when he is around.

We, Bob Shanks and Olive Flint, do will our electric fan to Beatrice LaPerle and Lawrence Camp to help them cool off when things get too hot. It works quite well — sometimes.

I, Douglas Kinney, do leave my athletic ability to "Bucky" Maynard, although "Bucky" really doesn't need it.

I, Blenda Morey, do will my feminine appeal to Annamae Hoyt.

I, Monica DuClaw, do will my trumpet to Ronald Soule, just in case Ronald bangs his own up again.

I, Philip McIntyre, do will my acting ability to Gordon Smith.

I, Ned Birchard, do leave my trim figure to Gardner Allen.

I, Aline Giroux, do leave in all generosity, my ability to understand and rattle off "Le Francais" to Elva Jean Wilber so that Elva Jean can keep tabs more easily on a certain Frenchman.

I, Jack Soule, do will and bequeath to no one in particular, nothing at all because I think I need everything I have.

I, Madeleine Boudreau, do will my position as top waitress in John's Restaurant to anyone who is hungry.

I, Evatte Dickinson, do leave my ability to keep the library quiet to next year's librarians.

We, the class of '49, do leave to the faculty, our kindest sympathy for their grief at their tremendous loss — the class of '49, of course.

We, the forty-niners and famous gold diggers, do leave our pick and shovel to the junior class in hopes that they will find more gold than we did. Is it possible?

To the sophomores, we leave our ever-present brotherly love, which is usually displayed during class meetings ! ? !

To the freshman class we leave our sympathy; we were freshmen ourselves once.

Having used our doubtful mentality to its best advantage, and being now thoroughly frazzled, we do hereby relinquish all claims to this, our priceless heritage.

Class Prophecy

by Ruth Chase, Lorraine Hall, Richard Chamberlin and George Vernimb

The scene takes place in Lorraine's living room in the year of 1960. She has invited her friend and 1949 classmate, Ruth, over for the afternoon.

By the use of the newest television equipment, they turn a dial, look at the screen and discover what their fellow classmates are doing.

Due to circumstances beyond our control some of the classmates' occupations are absolutely and definitely preposterous.

The reflection on the screen will show the occupations of the different pupils as follows:

Olive Flint — Dentist's Assistant
 Colin Gray — Dentist
 Roma Rice — Teacher
 Alice Thresher — Teacher
 Thelma Ordway — Teacher
 Polly Smith — Minister
 Blenda Morey — Getting Married
 Elaine Davis — Housewife
 Monica DuClaw — Housewife
 Jean Hodgdon — Nurse
 Carolyn Eddy — Nurse
 Katherine Laskey — Nurse
 Ann Cutting — "Old Howard"
 Erma Ellis — "Old Howard"
 Arlene Brassard — Teacher
 Mike Nicoletti — B. T. O.
 Madeleine Boudreau — John's Restaurant
 Lloyd Battles — Florist Shop
 Beverly Osgood — Florist Shop
 Ned Birchard — Clerk
 Elmer Ellis — Professional Baseball Player
 Mary Duto — Position in an Orphanage
 Evatte Dickinson — Baby Sitting
 Eleanor Goodrich — Telephone Operator
 Duane Sargeant — Craftsman
 Norma Morse — Interior Decorating
 Douglas Kinney — Radio Announcer
 Phil McIntyre — Civil Engineer
 Bobby Slayton — Civil Engineer
 Sally Royce — Position in an Orphanage
 Jack Soule — Bar Tender
 Paul Wilson — Polishing Shoes
 Perley Day — Service
 Weldon Osgood — Service
 Shirley Estabrook — Van Raalte's
 Robert Shanks — Mechanic
 Robert Denko — Veterinarian
 Audrey Fuller — Secretary
 Aline Giroux — Garbage Collector.
 Madeline LaRocque — Street Cleaner
 Naomi Jennings — Hat Shop
 Lois Rogers — Opera Singer

Forty Níners

(To the tune of "Margie")

by Lois Rogers, Naomi Jennings, Lloyd Battles and Colin Gray, Jr.

Our dear old school days, for us which have been filled with pleasure,
We'll ne'er forget those socials, games and meetings,
Oh, what a time!

Underneath the arching elms of Randolph High,
More fun!

You gave us inspiration, days were never blue —
After all is said and done you are still the only one,
Oh, Randolph, Randolph, it's you!

We've panned the gold from this ed-u-ca-tion-al system,
Oh, with our pick and shovel we will make our path in this world,
Others that have passed this way agree with us that Randolph
Is just the Alma Mater proudly called our own —
After all is said and done you are still the only one,
Oh, Randolph, Randolph, it's you!

Our Graduation Day

by Madeleine Boudreau

Although the journey has been long,
And difficult the way,
We strove in all we did
To make our graduation day.

We have no promise of the years,
Which yet we are to meet;
And yet our dreams, through smiles and tears,
We still prepare to greet.

The world will pass as days go by,
Our dreams will leave us never;
But all the wondrous things we prayed,
This all will last forever.

By step, on step, we'll gain our dreams,
Of many hours so filled with joy
In all the things we've planned,
Each graduated girl and boy.

In all four years in R. H. S.,
We didn't work in vain;
We looked ahead to this, our day,
And on toward days of fame.

Now we must leave this school of ours,
Our teachers and our friends;
The years we've worked together
For this successful end.

Randolph Gallopíng Ghosts

Randolph Gallopíng Ghosts surprised everyone by galloping on to 15 victories as against only five setbacks. They lost to St. Michael's in a playoff for the Northern Tournament by one point. As they lose only Bob Slayton, stellar guard, and Doug Kinney, season's high scorer, they should have another good season in '49.

Girls' Basketball

Coached by Mr. Bond, the girls won 5, lost 7 and tied 1. As the team loses only Jean Hodgdon, a guard, by graduation, prospects are good for next year.

Baseball

Randolph High School thus far has had a very successful season, winning seven and losing only three. As they lose only four regulars, Kinney, Slayton, Ellis and McIntyre, they should have another good year in 49-50.

Music

This year has been especially full musically for the members of the chorus and orchestra. The high point of the year was a joint concert with Northfield, in which the combined choruses and orchestras gave two concerts, one at Northfield and one at Randolph. Under the combined direction of Miss Mesh and Mrs. Whitney, the concert was a great success musically, as well as providing a chance for making friends.

The choral work has been outstanding due to the interest and ability shown by the freshman class. The orchestra has shown enthusiasm for their work because of the many new people who became a part of it and who have contributed so greatly to it.

Other musical activities have included a group sent to the All-State Orchestra and Chorus at Music Festival, a choral group who sang on Memorial Day and at Commencement, and the orchestra which played at Senior Play, Carnival and on Sub-Freshman Day.

Safety Patrol

The Randolph High Patrol was the first of its kind organized in the state. They have kept a record of not a single accident while the patrol was on duty and the patrol lived up to it again this year.

The patrol went to Rutland for a field day on May 14.

Buildíng Patrol

The Building Patrol, which this year numbers twenty-four, is made up of senior girls who volunteer to help with the school duties. Some of their duties are to help in Supt. Boright's office, to patrol the halls and stairs, to inspect the desks, to pull the shades, and to deliver the mail. For doing these various duties the girls each receive credit for their Silver R's.
